0	People told me if I voted for Hillary we just end up spending the next 4-8 years arguing about Clinton conspiracies. It looks like they were right.	89	ShaqqMeat
1	"Imao how can Kamala Harris be your first choice? She's a third-tier candidate" - me, who exclusively supports fourth-tier candidates	82	FullCombo
2	> If you look at everything that is going on in the world it is very clear that there will be another world war soon. Countries are picking sides, testing the waters by 'annexing' neighbouring countries. If you are fighting age (18-30) that passes medical, good luck. Is there something with Reddit that attracts the dumbest people in the world ? It's astonishing how idiotic users on this website can be.	73	DS__05
3	Part of me is impressed with the people over at /r/politics for their ability to maintain (justified) outrage even still. Every day, a new stream of "Trump sucks" posts roll in and they never tire. They are in that sense the bulwark against normalization. Another part of me think they must be pretty boring to talk to.	69	Oidentifierad
4	I'm sick of Epstein narrative. I'm sick of entering any where in social media and see people discussing about Epstein's death and insulting each other like: "no, it was Trump", "no, Clintons were involved!!!" Im sick of this truth seeker syndrome and Twitter hordes of people trying to link Epstein with Donald Trump, Bill Clinton and other people for crimes that allegedly happened in 2004-2006? (many time ago). I'm sick of been hearing Epstein news everywhere in social media for almost one month. For a moment, for a while... can we just let experts investigate Epstein's case and death instead of flooding social media with conspiracy theories?? Can we just believe in presumption of innocence instead of throwing random accusations? This has nothing to be with left or right issue. The left wing is now accusing Trump of being involved (they were just friends) The right wing now thinks it's Clinton and deep state involved. Yes, all parts of political compass are now becoming so obsessed with this case. Is just becoming sick how people are using Epstein's case to promote their political objectives...	59	mynameisooops
5	Imagine in 15 years when some idiot running for a House seat has to defend his Reddit comment history. "Who is this 'Lusvig' and why did you insultingly call him white no less than 17 times in a 3 month period?" "Why did you mean when you replied 'this but unironically' to an image of a meteor striking the suburbs?"	57	MisterBigStuff
6	Coffee left out for a little too long temperature take: Warren's completely unforced error in releasing the DNA test in reaction to the "Native American" "controversy" doesn't inspire me with a lot of confidence she'll be able to deal effective with Trump berating her 24/7.	55	JetJaguar124

8	>A world war? > >Maybe if you are in Europe and only because they don't have the 2nd amendment. In America our citizens are so well armed that it keeps the government in check for fear that they could overthrow them. It's literally what the forefathers prophesized would happen. The American revolution was won by the citizen's privately owned guns and frankly if other countries had the same right they wouldn't have ANY of the problems they do. It's the secret to why America has always been so great, it is our ace in the hole. Reddit is garbage.	49	rkapi
9	What if nobody killed Epstein and his neck just kinda did that?	49	thestickystickman
